Reward your prosperity

If you are considering moving to Anglesea but are struggling to find a residence that is of a quality that will allow you to finally make the move, then your search is over. This stunning property will surprise and delight at every turn. The single level floor plan will appeal to all age demographics but particularly those planning for later life. It is however the incredible attention to detail combined with the beautiful sense of light and space that will capture your attention from the outset. No expense was spared to create this masterpiece and the scale and proportions of the architecture is a credit to both the builder and the designer.

The expansive open plan main living area faces north and opens onto the garden and pool area that provides a genuine feeling of a private oasis where the world can exist around you but not affect you. A second living area overlooking the front garden is a versatile space that is just a joy to be in. The contemporary kitchen is world class with induction cooking, double ovens, built in Sub Zero refrigeration, butlers pantry and even two
